Multi-Function Lighting Platforms - Hybrid Solutions for the Modern Work Environment

Commercial LED lighting systems have in recent years become the conduit for scientific and technological deliverables that contribute to the comfort, health, safety and wellness of the corporate workforce. Today's lighting technologies, including antimicrobial, circadian, human centric and acoustical solutions, can be grouped together in a single product platform to provide multi-function hybrid lighting solutions. These unique configurations can help maximize their overall effectiveness in an installed environment while providing the economies of a single product platform with multiple deliverables.
